The Election.

The General Election as held in Bloomfield last Tuesday evening, extraordinary interest. It was remarkable in more respects than one. Besides the two parties—Republican and Democratic—there were two others—the Prohibitionists and the Workingmen, with the inevitable party paraphernalia of tickets, posters, pasters, poll committees, headquarters, carriages, caravans, and last, but not least, money to be used where it might do the best service in "getting out the vote." The "moodle" was not, as usual, distributed for treating at the bars before and on the day of election, but that "money was more plentiful in this election, than in any I ever saw" was volunteer testimony to the CITIZEN reporter by a Bloomfield politician who ought to know about such things. Nevertheless the bribery laws were strictly observed and religiously respected, of which latter this incident that happened at the Morris School House, may be taken. Early in the morning a poster was tacked up in the most conspicuous place at the entrance, declaring the law and penalty for bribery. Later on, a man came with posters to put up: "Vote for Henry Ahlborn." The inspector of election took charge of the important business now in hand, and evidently thought the fittest place for it was exactly where the bribery notice had been put, and so the latter was "bunketed" by the democratic poster! Still nobody protested, and the fair inference to the observer was, that the notice to vote for said candidate was put up to "mean business," while the other was put up only as "a matter of form."

Woman's F. M. B. Presbytery of Newark.

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Band of the Newark Presbytery met on Friday last in the Westminster church of this place. The morning meeting was opened with singing by a choir, then followed a prayer by Dr. Kennedy, the former pastor of the church, after which the reverend doctor made a welcoming speech. He said it was with mingled feelings of regret and pleasure that he filled that position—regret that the serious illness of the beloved pastor of the church Rev. Mr. Duffield—left his place vacant—and pleasure that he, the old pastor of that church, was permitted the great pleasure of welcoming that body of missionary workers.

Mrs. D. Kennedy, vice-president, presided in the absence of M. S. J. P. Wilson, who was detained by illness. The minutes of the last meeting were then read by the Secretary, after which Rev. Dr. C. G. Leslie, Secretary of the Presbytery, addressed the meeting. His remarks were deeply interesting. Singing closed the morning session, after which the Westminster ladies invited their guests into the Sunday school rooms, where they were entertained most hospitably.

The afternoon exercises were opened by fine music, after which an address was made by Mrs. Turner, of Philadelphia. She came bearing greetings from the parent society. Mrs. Turner is a very graceful and fluent speaker, and her heart was evidently in the missionary work. She did not fail to deeply move the hearts of her hearers and make them resolve to be more earnest workers in the future.

To THE BLOOMFIELD CITIZEN:

There are many kinds of pavements that are coming in vogue at the present time, utilizing many waste products of furnaces, foundries and stone quarries. Among many that come to my attention are the following which may be of interest:

"A new form of stone pavement has been put to trial of late in London, the paving material being known as granolithic stone. It is the invention of Mr. J. H. Bryant, and is a compound of iron slag, crushed granite, and Portland cement, which is reduced by chemical treatment to a plastic state, as occasion requires. It is said to harden quickly, being fit for traffic within a few hours after laying. It is fireproof and waterproof, and is stated to be able to successfully withstand a compressive strain of twenty tons per square inch. It has been largely adopted by railway companies, surveyors, and others in various parts of England. It is reported to be very low in price, and this circumstance alone should cause it to receive consideration. Pavings of this composition have been laid in several parts of London. It can be utilized with advantage for other purposes than paving, such as flooring joints, in order to render them fireproof, for railway platforms, and for the construction of breakwaters, dock-yards, and in many other ways.

BLOOMFIELD BRIEF LOCALS.

—The anniversary of the Park M. E. Sunday school will be held Sunday evening, the 14th inst.

—C. Cooper has the largest stock of plush photograph frames ever offered for sale in Bloomfield.

—A popular concert will be given on Thanksgiving night, for the benefit of the church of the Sacred Heart.

—Mr. Wm. C. Carl has been engaged as pianist by the Harmonic Society of Newark for the season of '86 and '87.

—The sale of reserved seats for the Ragan Illuminated Tours begins at Scherff's store to-day, (Saturday) at 7 A. M.

—Dr. J. E. Wilson has closed his branch office in Orange, and will in the future confine himself exclusively to practice in Bloomfield.

—On Saturday evening a pleasant surprise was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Morris on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

—The lecture of Rev. Mr. Mann will be delivered on Monday evening. It promises to be something interesting and instructive. Social advertisement.

—Ground has been broken for a new house on Berkeley avenue for Mr. Charles Farrand. There are several other new houses to be commenced shortly on the same avenue.

—Mr. Hogan, the milk dealer, lost one of his best cows; the animal in drinking water at Oakes' pond, swallowed an eel and had to be killed.

—At the Church of the Sacred Heart last Sunday afternoon a series of Rosary devotions was concluded. The children of the Sunday school have been presented with two new, very handsome banners.

—The Township Committee met in their rooms Wednesday evening with the full membership present. A number of bills were passed, and the evening devoted to discussing various matters of interest to the township.

—Since the last rains, Broad St. from Belleville Ave. north looks finely, both as to the grading and macadamizing. Now let the sidewalks come down to grade and entrance to canal be made to carry off the surplus water.

—There is some talk of a depot being built at the Bloomfield avenue crossing of the Watchung railroad. This would be a great convenience to the Eastern part of Bloomfield, the only accommodation now being the shanty of the flagman.

—Flagging has been laid the last week in Monroe Place some 600 feet in length. Mr. Theo. Ward has placed a curb in front of house owned by him and several more anticipate doing the same. There should be a complete walk from the Park to Spruce street.

—Some malicious person has broken the glass out of nearly every street lamp on Washington avenue. Of the twenty-two lamps on the street, eighteen are more or less broken. The authorities are looking for the culprit, and a reward is offered for his detection.

—Rev. E. D. Simons began last evening a short course of illustrated lectures, prepared by himself, on scenes and places in Europe. The lectures are to be given before the Young Peoples Association of the Baptist church, and will be continued on Friday evenings.

—The forking of a Young Men's Christian Association for Bloomfield is now well under way. Another meeting of young men from different churches was held last night (Friday) at the residence of Mr. Sheldon, at which Mr. Yattman from Newark, a well-known Association worker made an address.

—The European Society promises to the music-loving residents of Bloomfield a more than ordinarily attractive program on the occasion of their forthcoming concert. It has been fortunate in securing for that evening the well-known Urania Glee Club of New York, numbering twenty-eight mixed voices. The Glee Club will render some of the selections which have contributed so much to its popularity in the Metropolis. The concert is announced to take place Dec. 15th at the Westminster Presbyterian church, which has been generously placed at the disposal of the European by a vote of the Trustees.

Temperance Women and Politics.

It was charged in the Daily Advertiser that the rooms of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Newark were used on election day as headquarters for the Prohibition party. A spy letter from Mrs. E. J. Carter appeared in explanation, which contained the following: "It has been the custom of the Union to open their hall on election days, and to give coffee and lunch to whoever happens in, irrespective of party; our object in doing this is to keep our reformed men from the temptation of the free lunch of the saloons, and to reach others with the pledge. Our doors were not opened especially as headquarters for the Prohibitionists, but for our regular work. We are not a political organization. Being disfranchised citizens, we could not become such if we wished; but being neither fools nor idiots, we have principles and opinions. We stand for the protection of our homes, for social purity, for the sacredness of the Sabbath; and we believe that the existence of the saloon is a monstrous social crime, and every year finds our conviction strengthened that to secure the enforcement of laws prohibiting the liquor traffic we need a party pledged to that end. Executive force must stand back of the law. We are of opinion, too, that if there was enough Christian manhood in this country the whole traffic could be wiped out in one year; and we believe that there is enough Christian womanhood who will manage to put it down some day."

Dry Goods.

The purchasers of Dry Goods in this vicinity declare Hannigan & Bouillon's, 721 Broad St., Newark, to be the best place to make a large parcel for little money. Those who have visited the different stores, say 721 is the A. 1 for bargains. Note their new advertisement this week on 2nd page.

The October number of Shopp's Modern Houses is an improvement upon the former numbers of this excellent publication and contains fifty-one handsome designs for modern houses to cost from $600 to $15,000 each, besides much that is interesting in regard to interior decoration, sanitary measures, landscape gardening and amateur house painting. An article on picture hanging and the construction of artistic frames is especially good. The frontispiece is a handsome colored plate of a modern cottage. The book is an interesting study for a winter evening, whether the reader intends to build or not. It is published by the Co-operative Building Plan Company, No. 191 Broadway, New York, and is sold by newsdealers generally.
